

New Hampshire, Ohio, Indiana and Iowa.

In his own State, Colonel Roosevelt has in great part been carrying the weight of the campaign on his own shoulders, and has found it a burden which taxed his strength, and which he was glad to lay down to-night. He was tired when it was over, but he said that he had enjoyed every day of it. The Colonel delivered two speeches this afternoon, and six to-night, not counting an address at the birthday dinner given in his honor by the Hungarian Republican Club at Cafe Boulevard, and a campaign speech in behalf of W. W. Cox at Astoria, L. I.

"We are going to knock them through the ropes," was the way Colonel Roosevelt put it in his speech to-day. He continued his attack on John A. Dix, and at times switched his fire to Mr. Dix's associates on the Democratic ticket.

"I ask you to look at what Mr. Dix's supporter, the Evening Post, says of Mr. Dix's colleagues," said he.

"Mr. Dix says he wants to turn the calcium light of publicity on the wrong-doers at Albany. Let him turn it on the men running on his own ticket. The Evening Post says of his candidacy for lieutenant governor that he is a member of the Smith-Woodbine, and a man of mediocre capacity; of the candidate for comptroller, that he is a man of bad legislative record and a subservient Tammany tool who should be defeated; of the candidate for treasurer, charges against him, and of the holding up of franchises and the juggling of contracts; that he is a ward of Sheehan and William J. Connors, and that his candidacy is an insult to all decent men. And these four men are the chief men on the ticket with Dix. They would control the canal fund commission, which is to spend an undetermined million dollars, and actually you are asked to support a man who is trying to carry into power four associates of such character."

In all his speeches to-day, Colonel Roosevelt repeated his attack on Mr. Dix's labor record, saying that the Democratic candidate had admitted that some of his employees worked thirteen hours a day.

After making his last speech, Colonel Roosevelt went to Oyster Bay to spend the night. He expects to remain at home to-morrow and will vote at noon.

Last Desperate Effort.
Cleveland, O., November 7.—Each with a record of partial defeat in the two last State elections, the Republican and Democratic parties to-night are making their last desperate effort toward a complete victory at the polls to-morrow.

Twice the Democrats elected a Governor and twice the Republicans have elected a legislative majority and the greater part of their State ticket. This year the campaign has been a bitter struggle between the two parties. Judson Harmon and his Republican opponent, Warren G. Harding, the Marion editor, has been exceptionally bitter. Charges of bribery have been leveled at State officials and employees of each party. The Republican campaign has been discredited by an anti-slavery debate between its own progressive and stand-pat orators.

While the Democrats go before the people with absolutely no mention of national affairs except the plan of indorsement of Governor Harmon for President, Mr. Harding, aided by four members of the President's staff, has strongly urged the plan. Republican success would be construed as an indorsement of President Taft and his administration, and a Republican defeat would be construed as a rebuke to the White House.

All Leaders Optimistic.
Indianapolis, November 7.—With traditional optimism, the leaders of both the Republican and Democratic parties predict that at the polls to-morrow large majorities will be rolled up for their candidates for the Legislature and the State officers. Chairman Edwin S. Lee, of the Republican State Committee, who will appear on joint ballot the next Legislature would return Albert J. Beveridge to the United States Senate by a majority of

GETTING IN LINE FOR NEW TRAFFIC LAWS

Council Receives Many Suggested Motor Car Measures, All Being Sent to Committee—Pollock Raps Finance Committee in Dooley's Offer for Release.

While tacitly admitting the great need of a comprehensive traffic law for the city, the Common Council last night rejected the proposal of the Board of Police Commissioners that it be given authority to make such regulations. The City Attorney having advised that it was doubtful whether the Council could delegate such authority.

Mr. Mills argued with force that radical changes were needed in present traffic conditions, and asked the recommitment of the measure, that it might be recast in different form, asking why it was that the Council could delegate to the Board of Health power to make sanitary regulations, if it could not take similar action with regard to the Police Board.

Ulniaut to Offer New Law.
Chairman Ulniaut, of the Ordinance, Charter and Reform Committee, which had reported the measure adversely, notified the Council that he was having prepared and would offer at the next meeting a more comprehensive law on the subject of street traffic, designed to cover all of the points which have been raised. Mr. Mills withdrew his objection, and on that understanding

The rules were suspended and the proposition made without going to the Finance Committee. On recommendation of the Street Committee, the City Attorney was directed to acquire certain land for the opening of new Lester Street, the resolution modifying the former lines adopted for the proposed thoroughfare to Fulton.

On recommendation of the Finance Committee a resolution was adopted providing in the budget of 1911 $25,000 for an annex to Chimborazo Public School; an appropriation of $1,328 for purchase of land for school purposes in Washington; and an appropriation of $12,000 for electric lights for the balance of the fiscal year, and of $5,500 to the Gas Works for the balance of the year.

An appropriation of $5,000 was made for pay roll and expenses of the new electric plant, and of $1,000 for cost of steam pumps at the Water Works, used on account of delay in finishing the electric plant. An appropriation of $1,000 was made to expenses in Maury and Mt. Olivet Cemeteries. The Grounds and Buildings Committee was instructed to lease quarters for the City Chemist, at $450 per year, for three years.

City's Greatest Work.
An appropriation of $700 was made for entertainment of the Virginia Educational Conference, after a somewhat stormy week had been made on the holding of the City Engineer's Convention by Messrs. Hirschberg and Seaton. Mr. Hirschberg said the city had spent $125,000 in the past three years on conventions. Mr. Blake replied that that was not more than an average modern grocery store would spend every year in advertising. Mr. Blake replied that the city should push for a new trade in every legitimate way. Mr. Hirschberg quoted at length from an article in the City Engineer's Convention, but failed to prove his point. The City Attorney quoting the charter, proved that the city could make appropriations to "promote the general welfare of the inhabitants of the city."

Mr. Pollard thought that an educational clause, Mr. Seaton thought that little good had been done by the city's convention work, whereupon Mr. Blake said that it was a man from Norfolk who had come to a convention and had seen the opportunity, who had headed the movement to rebuild the city. Mr. Pollard added that he had not been for the coming to Richmond of the Episcopal General Convention that had been probably never before.

No Automobile for Fire Chiefs.
After prolonged debate the ordinance was adopted, 32 to 2.
An appropriation of $126.75 was made to pay architects' balances due on the Richmond Light Infantry Blues' Armory, and an ordinance making an extra allowance of $15 per month to the City Engineer's Convention, was adopted. The Finance Committee recommended the rejection of the ordinance allowing the Fire Board to use unexpended balances in purchasing automobiles for the city, and the measure was rejected, 14 to 19.

Vetoes City Seal Measure.
Mayor Richardson returned with his veto the ordinance adopting an original design for the seal of the city, there being some conflict of dates, and the Mayor feared that some question might be raised as to the value of city bonds or official papers were there any errors. The message referred to the Committee on Ordinance, Charter and Reform, which will report a revised ordinance.

The Mayor also transmitted a letter from the State Engineers relative to that part of the Government Road in the city limits, which was referred to the Street Committee. The Council concurred in the Board of Aldermen amendments to the ordinance authorizing the Fire Board to purchase an automobile fire engine.

On recommendation of the Committee on Streets, the Council adopted resolutions requiring the recess of the steps of the First National Bank and making the portico line the true line of Main Street, until otherwise pulled down; removed, permitting J. Henry Miller, incorporated, to close Bank Street from Tenth to Eleventh for three months; authorizing the opening of a sidewalk beside the Jewish Oakwood Cemetery, at a cost of $350; authorizing an arbitration of the street between the municipal electric plant and the Virginia Railway and Power Company; authorizing the Stump Hotel to erect certain awnings over the entrance, and allowing the construction of a number of private sewers, at the cost of property owners.

Buildings to report the cost of acquiring land in old Jackson Ward for park for negroes, which went to the Grounds and Buildings Committee. Mr. Ferguson offered a resolution directing the City Engineer to prepare a plan to preserve the old Battery, known as No. 10, on Monument Avenue, between Davis and Addison Streets, the plan being to do a suitable inscription on the embankment, with a curbing for its preservation.

The Council adopted a general resolution indorsing New Orleans as the location of the proposed Panama Canal Exposition. Mr. Hirschberg offered a resolution providing for a semi-monthly pay roll system, which went to the Committee on Ordinance, Charter and Reform, and a similar resolution regarding the pay system for school teachers, which was adopted under suspension of the rules.

Mr. Pollack offered a resolution providing for payment of damages for Fairmount, as ascertained by arbitration, which went to the Finance Committee. J. C. Powers asked $3,475 for purchase of land to enlarge Chimborazo Park, which went to the Finance Committee. Mr. Ratcliffe wanted to increase the pay of the seven district physicians to $100 each, which went to the Committee on Ordinance, Charter and Reform. The City Attorney reported on the bills from the State Corporation Commission of $25 a year for seven years, for franchise tax on the Free Bank. It held that there was grave doubt as to the legality of the assessment, but thought court proceedings would be so expensive that it would be cheaper to pay the bills. The papers went to the Committee on Finance.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Clifton Forge, Va., November 7.—J. C. Carpenter, Sr., president of the First National Bank in this city, died at the Clifton Forge Workmen's Club, a large railroad contractor, and the city's foremost citizen, died in his home here to-night at 10 o'clock after an extended illness, aged fifty-seven years. Two years or more ago Mr. Carpenter suffered his second stroke of paralysis while on a tour from his home in Clifton Forge, and he was taken from a Norfolk and Western train at Wytheville, where he was treated until able to leave for his home. He was a well-known man, and he was never a well man, and though able to go about for a long time, his friends recognized that he was not the same vigorous citizen. During the past year he visited the leading health resorts in America and Europe, in the hope of obtaining some benefit, but it was all in vain. He was born in Logan county, and when quite a young man began life working for a firm of railroad contractors, and steadily advanced in the business. For a short while he was engaged in business in Richmond, but in the early nineties moved with his family to Clifton Forge, and had resided here ever since. While the largest individual owner of real estate in the city, he did not confine his energies to the real estate business, but large interests in railroad construction in the two Virginias and Tennessee.

Mr. Carpenter is survived by his wife and six children, as follows: Hunter Carpenter, now of New York; J. C. Carpenter, Jr., Mrs. B. C. Goodwin, Mrs. B. F. Donovan, and Miss Mary C. Carpenter. He was a liberal contributor to all charitable objects. The arrangements for the funeral have not been announced. The funeral will be held in a regular monthly session when advised of Mr. Carpenter's death, and immediately adjourned as a mark of respect to his memory.
